Faculty Position in Educational Leadership (Open Rank)

The Department of Educational Leadership and Policy Studies at Indiana University School of Education seeks applications for a tenure-track, open-rank position in the educational leadership program. This nationally ranked unit has a deep commitment to social justice, high quality research, field connections, and the preparation of exemplary school leaders. We seek outstanding candidates with research and teaching interests related to leadership, education policy and politics. We are particularly interested in individuals with the following attributes: demonstrated research skills and accomplishments, success in obtaining external research grants and contracts, expertise in quantitative research methods, demonstrated excellence in teaching graduate students, work with education policy at the national or state levels, and work with K-12 schools. The successful candidate will be expected to conduct research on issues pertaining to educational leadership and policy; to teach leadership, politics, policy and other courses related to the applicant’s area of expertise in the educational leadership doctoral, master’s, and licensure programs; to direct doctoral dissertations; to advise graduate students; and, if appropriate, serve in program leadership capacities. Our department offers degrees at the Master’s, Ed.S., Ed.D., and Ph.D. levels, and has formal collaborations with other units in the university, including the Maurer School of Law, the Kelley School of Business, and the School of Public and Environmental Affairs. In addition we have strong collaborations with area school districts and professional associations. An earned doctorate (Ed.D., Ph.D.) in an appropriate field is required.

Screening of applications will begin October 1, 2015, and continue until the position is filled. The position will begin fall 2016 semester. Candidates will upload to http://indiana.peopleadmin.com/postings/1697 (1) a letter of application describing research and teaching interests and experience, (2) curriculum vitae, (3) sample of scholarship, (4) evidence of graduate teaching effectiveness and (5) names and contact information for three professional references. Three additional (total of six) references will be needed for the associate or professor level. References will be contacted only after applicant has been notified. Additional information about the School of Education can be found at http://education.indiana.edu/. Questions about the position may be directed to Search Committee Chair, Professor Janet Decker at deckerjr@indiana.edu, 201 North Rose Avenue 4228, Bloomington, IN 47405. The faculty of Indiana University is committed to achieving excellence through cultural diversity. The university actively encourages applications and nominations of women, persons of color, applicants with disabilities, and members of other under-represented groups.

Indiana University is an equal employment and affirmative action employer and a provider of ADA services. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, ethnicity, color, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation or identity, national origin, disability status or protected veteran status.