Title of Practicum
Campus Environment Research and Assessment Practicum

Practicum Description Summary
The Culturally Engaging Campus Environments (CECE) Project is aimed at supporting postsecondary institutions in their efforts to transform their campus environments and cultivate the conditions for diverse student populations to thrive in college. The CECE Project seeks to accomplish this through (1) helping campuses utilize the CECE Survey to assess how well they are cultivating the conditions for diverse populations to thrive and (2) work with campuses to develop strategic plans to transform their campuses. For this practicum, students can help develop and finalize policies related to survey dissemination, help develop a marketing plan and marketing tools for the project, assist in the development of a grant proposal related to the project, and collaborate on the development of a national webinar based on the project.
