CURRENT PROFESSIONAL POSITIONS

- 2017–Present Research Assistant, Center for Postsecondary Research, Indiana University, Bloomington, IN

Duties: Utilize national student engagement databases and institutional financial aid databases to research and report on issues impacting student success and retention. Work with a research team led by Dr. Victor Borden to identify future areas of support in student success programming. Report on trends and program outcomes to inform national discourse and institutional decision-making related to student success efforts.

2017–Present Doctoral Research Assistant, The Global Financial Literacy Excellence Center, The George Washington University, Washington, D.C.

Duties: Work as a doctoral research assistant for economist, Dr. Annamaria Lusardi, helping to shape national and international dialogue around student financial literacy. Assist in efforts to make research findings accessible to policymakers and practitioners, promoting financial education in schools, the workplace, and the community. Develop and promote financial education programs in K-12 and postsecondary education globally.

2016–Present Associate Instructor, Indiana University, Bloomington, IN

Duties: Serve as the Instructor of Record for an undergraduate course on Current Issues in Undergraduate Life. Teach an introductory personal finance course, Financial Planning for College, which explores socioeconomic issues in relation to educational attainment.

PREVIOUS PROFESSIONAL POSITIONS

2016–2017 Federal Student Aid Financial Literacy Intern, U.S. Department of Education, Washington, D.C.

Duties: Participated in the State Department’s Virtual Student Foreign Service Internship Program. Researched practices that improve the financial capability of students in college. Presented research on best practices in financial education at Federal Student Aid training conferences.

2015–2017 Higher Education and Student Affairs Program Graduate Assistant, Indiana University, Bloomington, IN Duties: Managed and assessed programs associated with recruitment, orientation, community building, and professional development for a top ten ranked graduate program. Successfully coordinated the largest number of graduate assistantship placements in the department’s history, allowing for an expansion of the master’s and doctoral programs. Promoted public relations for the department through an extension into social media outlets, as well as through the maintenance of student and alumni listservs, and the rebranding of a bi-monthly newsletter publication. Implemented new programs, such as peer mentoring and Special Interest Groups, designed to enhance graduate student success.

May–Aug 2016 Academic Advisor, University Division, Indiana University, Bloomington, IN

Duties: Advised freshmen and transfer students during New Student Summer Orientation. Enrolled students across all majors and actively engaged students in major exploration and the development of interdisciplinary plans of study.

2014–2015 Head of the Office for Student Money Management, Wichita State University, Wichita, KS

Duties: Co-founded and directed a university peer-to-peer financial coaching program. Developed training resources and supervised peer financial coaching sessions. Coordinated with over 30 campus offices to offer financial education presentations and outreach with more than 8,000 community members in the first year of operation. Oversaw the implementation of a free tax-filing program through United Way and the IRS, which resulted in an estimated savings of $46,000 to Wichita State students in tax preparation fees. Aided with the coordination of an annual conference on Student Success Through Financial Literacy, promoting the national discourse among practitioners, educators, and researchers in the field.

2011–2014 Assistant Project Coordinator: Financial Literacy for College Success Program, Wichita State University, Wichita, KS

Duties: Co-authored a free online financial literacy resource, MyCollegeMoneyPlan.org, designed to teach basic personal finance while aiding students in selecting post-secondary education supporting their academic and career goals. Assisted in national marketing efforts, extending the project's reach to over 35,000 Americans in over 40 states. Designed an evaluation to measure student outcomes associated with the website and corresponding lesson plans. Assisted with the development of an annual conference on Student Success Through Financial Literacy.

2009–2013 Research Associate, Center for Community Support and Research, Wichita State University, Wichita, KS

Duties: Conducted research and evaluations with non-profit organizations, community coalitions, schools, and government agencies. Gained quantitative and qualitative research skills in areas such as: data coding, concept mapping, in-depth interviewing, logic model development, participatory mapping, video ethnography, environmental observations, needs assessments, life history inquiries, and participatory action research.

2009–2010 Community Support Worker, Behavioral Link, Wichita, KS

Duties: Worked with children in psychosocial rehabilitation in schools and home/foster care placements in the community. Worked with a team of psychologists, case managers, program managers, and social workers to provide wrap-around support services to help students reach their educational and behavioral goals.
