School of Education	244	96	39%
All Others	1,156	2	0%
Total	7,604	1,937	25%

2013 showed a 23% increase in direct admit enrollment over 2012.

Direct admits are defined as students enrolled directly in a program on census date, rather than in University Division. The exception is Education. Education direct admits are students with an admissions recruiting category flag indicating they were direct admitted by Education who enrolled as a University Division Pre-Education student. Note that while most music majors are direct admits, some are coded as University Division Pre-Music, Recording Arts majors for example.

Questions to Ponder

- What are the short and long term trends affecting your school or departments?
- Following up on the president's question about reputation and rankings, what are the drivers, trends, and opportunities for your school or areas within it on reputation?
- What areas within your school are you pursuing as growth areas?
 - a. Which areas do you view as your strongest academically, and by what criteria (research excellence, funded research, undergraduate program interest, graduate program interest, other)?
 - b. Which emerging areas provide reputational strength and/or funded research opportunities?

Possible School of Education Metrics

- Academic Analytics Measures

Update on Renovations

Bloomington

Renovation Projects for Summer 2014

- Suite 1000 will be renovated this summer
- In collaboration with UITS, a new collaborative student technology lounge will be added late summer/early fall (room 2011)
- The auditorium will be renovated this summer with new seating, technology, removal of the projection booth, new power availability, greater accessibility for individuals with disabilities, and an assistive hearing system. Seating will remain approximately the same capacity.

Graduate & Undergraduate Enrollment

Bloomington

IUB Graduate Credit Hours

- fall always tends to exceed spring by 6-10%
- totals are up $\approx 1.72\%$ between spring 2013 and 2014
- total down from fall 2011 to fall 2013 of $\approx 7.70\%$
- total down from spring 2012 to spring 2014 of $\approx 1.92\%$

Summer presents us with the best opportunity to increase credit hour production; spring may be next best.

G901 credits are rising slowly but inexorably – these represent students whose programs extend beyond the 12 credits of dissertation preparation

Bloomington Graduate Admissions

Completed apps

- 2013 = 1136
- 2014 = 1080

Percentage apps/admits

- Admitted - 50.59%
- Denied – 27.69%

Admissions are in progress –at this time the numbers show:

- 135 admissions without decisions yet (about 12%)
- fewer withdrawals than we will have by start of term

Uniquely You.

The INSPIRE Living-Learning Center welcomes undergraduate students, including juniors and seniors, who will have opportunities to assume particular leadership roles in the INSPIRE community.

You Belong Here.

"INSPIRE is an ideal place to explore what it means to be a learner and effective teacher in the 21st century."

—James Damico, Ph.D.
INSPIRE LLC Director

Customize your Indiana University experience through Inspire LLC, a living and learning center located in the newest residence hall on campus, Rose Hall, where you will take on the joys and challenges of college among people with similar interests—collaborating, bonding, and enjoying everything that IU has to offer.

This is the right place for you if:

- You are excited about a career in education and are passionate about teaching and learning
- You are interested in what makes an effective teacher in today's highly diverse and technological society
- You are actively engaged in discovering ways we can begin to address core challenges affecting schools and communities

How can you help?

- Get out your phones and spread some HESA love! Using #IUHESA, tweet your favorite thing about the HESA program at Indiana University.
- Provide the names of three people in your network that should receive information about the HESA campaign for graduate assistantships.
- Give us the gift of your opinion! Soon you'll receive an electronic survey about your HESA experience. We'll use your feedback to develop our campaign materials, so please ... fill it out!
- Make a gift to support HESA graduate assistantships! There are many ways to give. Visit hesa.indiana.edu to learn more.

Counseling and Counselor Education Master's Program

Congratulations on your acceptance to the Counseling and Counselor Education master's program! This program is designed to be challenging, relevant, and personal. You can write the next chapter of your life at the Indiana University School of Education. You will experience a culture of research and collaboration between your peers and professors that allows you to reach your greatest potential.

The School of Education is committed to advancing excellence in people just like you. In keeping with this goal, the School will offer a 20% tuition fellowship to support all qualified students in the master's degree program in Counseling and Counselor Education for up to three academic years. We are serious about investing in your future.

To be eligible for the Advancing Excellence tuition fellowship, you must be fully admitted to the Counseling and Counselor Education master's program with the primary goal of earning a M.S. Ed. degree. Your enrollment must begin in either Summer semester or Fall semester 2014. You must enroll in at least 6 credit hours per semester and maintain a minimum 3.3 GPA. The tuition discount will apply only to course credits that count toward degree program requirements.

If you begin your program in Summer 2014 and continually meet the eligibility requirements, you can take advantage of the 20% tuition discount until Spring 2017. If you start your program in Fall 2014 and maintain the eligibility standards, you can receive the discount until Summer 2017. Tuition support from the Advancing Excellence program is not transferrable to another degree program.

Please confirm your decision to enroll. Summer 2014 enrollment commitments must be received by April 15, 2014. The deadline to confirm Fall 2014 enrollment is August 1, 2014. We are ready when you are.

What matters. Where it matters.

“ I chose to study intercultural higher education policy because I want to know what diversity looks like when historically marginalized students enter previously inaccessible spaces in higher education. ”

THE INDIANA UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF EDUCATION

The Indiana University School of Education is for those who dare to teach.

It's for those who dare to make the world better.
Those who dare to change lives and shape minds.
Those who dare to believe in a bright future.

As teachers, we are on the front lines, doing the critically important, time-consuming, life-altering work that will shape the future of not only our students, but also the world in which we live. And we wouldn't have it any other way. If you feel the same, you've come to the right place.

Those who dare to teach apply here.

The Indiana University School of Education is a national leader in preparing teachers:

ranked consistently among the nation's top programs

Seven areas of the School of Education are nationally ranked by U.S. News & World Report, including Secondary Education and Elementary Education.

most highly regarded

Our Global Gateway for Teachers program boasts some of the most highly regarded international teaching experiences available.

INDIANA UNIVERSITY

What makes an IU School of Education degree one of the best in the country?

A lot of things:

An intentionally diverse set of field experiences—including classroom participation starting as early as your second semester—and up to a semester-long student-teaching experience that will equip you to lead your own classroom with confidence and compassion.

Through our nationally renowned Global Gateway for Teachers, you can student teach in Chicago, on one of three Navajo reservations, or at any one of 18 international locations. Not only will you gain additional teaching experience, you will develop firsthand expertise in teaching students from different backgrounds.

Through our cohort and cluster approach, you will move through the curriculum with a tight-knit group of peers, forming close relationships and creating a community of educators who will serve as a support system, sounding board and built-in professional network upon graduation.

As Hoosiers, IU School of Education students are part of one of the most vibrant campus communities in the country. For sports, food, culture and campus beauty, Bloomington and Indiana University are regularly ranked among the top in the nation by publications such as Forbes, Newsweek, The New York Times, Sports Illustrated, Travel & Leisure and USA Today.

To an incredible teacher, every setting becomes a classroom.

We pride ourselves on preparing teachers to teach. In fact, the vast majority of our graduates have secured teaching positions upon graduation. But the truth is, you can find incredible teachers everywhere: in classrooms and boardrooms, in newsrooms, laboratories and studios.

In addition to preparing teachers to lead their own classrooms, an IU School of Education degree serves as strong preparation for any career. Our graduates enter the workforce with deep content knowledge and a wide range of skills employers everywhere seek, including experience in presenting, public speaking, conflict resolution, organization and time management.

If you're determined to be the kind of teacher your students will never forget, there's a place for you in the IU School of Education. Visit education.indiana.edu or call 812-856-8500 for more information.

Next Steps

- Rebranding Global Gateway for Teachers (previously Cultural Immersion Program)
- Putting a greater emphasis on diversity in our recruiting materials, creating some materials specific to underrepresented populations
- Identify and connect with feeder high schools, sharing marketing materials with them this summer
- Starting now with Direct Admit postcards, Hook Book and General Information Brochure to be delivered soon to prospective students for class of 2015-16
