IU Bloomington School of Education
Revised Residency Policy

The graduate course of study must not be less than 6 semesters in duration of which at least two consecutive 9 credit hour semesters taken in a single academic year (exclusive of summer session) must be spent in residence on the core campus of Indiana University. This requirement must be completed after admission to the doctoral program. Dissertation credits may not be included in the nine hours. Some programs have been approved for deviations from this department.

For information purposes, we have four current exemptions to the above policy.

1. School Administration Ed.D. students may use a summer as one of their residency semesters.
2. Higher Education Ed.D. students employed as Residence Hall Coordinators/Advisors may complete residency with two consecutive 6 hour semesters.
3. Students in an experimental dual major Curriculum and Instruction/School Administration Ed.D. program may meet residency with 4 consecutive 6 hour semesters, one of which may be summer,
4. Language Education has a more stringent residency requirement but their students meet the School's minimum requirements.
