P313 Adolescents in a Learning Community Variable 2 - 3 cr hrs .

Bloomington/Indianapolis

This course is directed toward an understanding, partly of adolescence as a process, but more of adolescents as people and how they exist and operate within a community of learners who bring to the school context and interact with others who bring to the school context multiple cultural, social, and personal traits. The underlying vision of the course is one of adolescent development. Superimposed on and integrated into that view is the role of the teacher who is aware of and responsive to diverse groups of adolescents.

S430 Teaching and Learning in the High School 3 credit hours Bloomington/Indianapolis

This course for secondary teachers explores curriculum planning for conceptual learning that is developmentally appropriate for adolescents and young adults. It includes the topics of high school organization and reform, assessment, critical thinking, urban school settings, risk behaviors, identify development, and importance of the larger community context.
