New Course Proposals

EDUC-H 200 - Introduction to P-12 Education Policy – Bloomington campus – 3 credit hours

This is a course that will be required for a new joint education policy minor with the SoE and SPEA. It is designed to be an exciting introduction to current issues in education policy that will both inform students and motivate them to take more courses in education and the minor.

It is also designed to introduce students to policy analysis.

Although there may be a few topics covered in H340 that will be covered in this course, they will be covered in a different manner (e.g., with attention to current controversy, media info, and guest speakers) and they will be intended to lead to the more in-depth exploration in H340. We will work together to minimize any unhelpful overlap.
