New Course Proposals

D470 – Educational Internship in Non-School Setting 1 – 16 credits IUPUI
 Full-time supervised educational internship working with children in a non-school setting. The experience is directed by a qualified mentor in the organization or group in which the internship occurs and by a university provided supervisor. Students will work with children and prepare educational activities for a non-school setting. This will afford students interested in working with children in an educational setting but not wanting a teaching license the opportunity to complete an internship in a non-school setting such as community centers, Boys and Girls Clubs, United Way agencies, etc. where they will design and implement educational activities for young children. Justification: This will afford students interested in working with children in an educational setting but not wanting a teaching license the opportunity to complete an internship in a non-school setting such as community centers, Boys and Girls Clubs, United Way agencies, etc. where they will design and implement educational activities for young children.

N343 – Mathematics in the Elementary School variable1 – 6 credits IUPUI

P: N102

Emphasizes the developmental nature of mathematical ideas and processes and the role of mathematics in the elementary curriculum. Public school participation is required. It is a course that we will use for a concentration in mathematics education for elementary school teachers. Justification: It is a course that we will use for a concentration in mathematics education for elementary school teachers.

Course Change Proposals

C680 – History of Higher Education & Philanthropy 3 credits BL

Course examines philanthropy within the history of higher education in the U.S. Readings will introduce some classic works so that philanthropy is understood in terms of historical, social, economic, and political factors which have shaped colleges and universities over more than three centuries. Justification: need to offer an online version for a certificate in field
